

The Bite Of Freddys

By Liam Prophet

There once was a boy named Nicolas. He loved to eat pizza, and in two months it was his birthday. His parents let him pick a restaurant to go to for his birthday with two friends. He decided to pick Freddy Fazbear's Pizzeria. He was so excited to go and the managers went in some costumes and baked a cake for them. They were there for hours, and played arcade games. They had TVs there but they were only for special occasions like birthdays. So the boy, Nicolas, asked if he can watch TV in there. They said OK and he watched My Hero Academia. All night. When they were done watching TV, they went out and had some pizza. Then it was finally time for cake! It was a cake with Freddy, Bonnie, and Chica's faces in the middle, and Foxy and Golden Freddy's heads on the sides. He picked the slice with Freddy on it. When the cake was over, it was time for presents. After the presents, he fell asleep there. There were four kids that were tired of him sleeping. They were joking around with him, and they accidentally put him too close to Fredbear and he woke up and saw Fredbear's head too close. Then they accidentally put his head in there and the bear bit his frontal lobe off. The four kids felt bad but when no one was looking, a guy in purple had a knife and hid behind them in the dark. He stabbed them with the knife. They all were killed. Then something unexpected happened, the Marionette put them into animatronic suits and gave them life again. They were happy they were still alive, but couldn't leave. They had to make shows all alone like that.