

In Tim's new house, he found something very mysterious. Tim is 15, and he just moved into a new house. What he found was insane. He found a mysterious door. The door seemed normal. There was nothing weird about it. Well, nothing weird about the door, until he opened it..

Tim moved to a new house because his parents got new jobs. Tim's parents told time to go to his new room and unpack, so he did. After unpacking, he joins his parents, and his little sister for dinner. For the night, Tim's little sister had to sleep in his room since their parents went out, and she can't be alone. They both sleep peacefully through the night, until when Tim woke up in the morning and his sister was gone.

He didn't worry. She probably woke up early and is watching television, or with their parents. He went back to sleep, but in less than 2 minutes, he heard a scream. Tim searched everywhere in the creepy house. The only place he didn't check was the secret room. Nervously, Tim lifted up a rug that covered the small door.. When he reached his hand to the small handle, he felt a tug on the other side. The tug scared him to death, but then he quickly said, "You scared me to death Vicky!" Tim, for the second time, reaches for the handle of the mini door, and pulls it open.

Of course, it's very dark inside of the mysterious door, but Tim decided to just go in because his sister was already in it. When he crawls inside, he starts yelling at Vicky. "Get out now! There might be snakes in here!" He gets no response. "Vicky!" Still nothing. Tim starts reaching for the door, "Wow. The scream must've come from outside becau-" Right when Tim was about to push the door open, it swished shut quickly. "Vicky? Was that you? This isn't funny!" "Vicky's a nice name.." Tim flinches in fear. "What?! Who are you??" Tim tries to crawl away, but the room is smaller than he thought. "TimmMMM..." He hears from above the floor. Of course Tim recognizes that voice, it's his little sister! Tim crawls up to the door and breaks it open.

"What were you doing down there?" Tim wasn't able to answer because he ran to his parents right away. "You NEED to see this." Tim's parents aren't interested. "NOW!" He convinced them to follow him, and he shows them the little door, and they try to open it. Tim yells "NO WAY!" "Why not?" says his mom, and opens the door anyway. "Oh my!!" Tim's dad yelled. "I warned you.." Tim said. "Such a cute little bunny!" Says Tim's sister. "What do you mean..?" His family takes the bunny outside to free it, but they leave the door open. Tim feels insane. He goes to close the door, then he feels a tug on the other side.
